HOW many colored fabrics in your home could stand such a test and emerge from it with not a vestige of color gone?
But this is just what every dye used in the manufacture of

Whittall Rugs

has to do. If any fail in the slightest degree to measure up to this standard, not an ounce of it does Whittall buy.

This means that any Whittall Rug you buy—no matter what the quality, size or price, you can feel certain it will not fade—it will look bright and clear as long as the fabric lasts.

Never buy a rug or a yard of carpet unless it has the name "Whittall's" woven into the back. That is the manufacturer's guarantee to you that he stands back of his goods. It is his pride that not one piece that goes out of the mill shall be below the Whittall high standard.

News has been received of the death of Mrs. Lucina Dexter, a one-time resident of Williamstown and this city. Her death occurred last Monday night, after a short sickness with pneumonia. In Providence, R. I. The remains were taken to South Royalton and her burial occurred there today.

Alterations to the street front of the Jackson block have been started and as one of the first steps toward changing the entrance to the store apartment on the first floor, carpenters were busy yesterday in removing a large single plate glass. A middle entrance is to take its place and display windows are to be two in number instead of one.

Removal notice—Saturday, Jan. 9, my store will be closed for alterations and repairs. Until then, there will be cut prices on fruits and confectionery. About March 1, my new store will be opened at the old stand—76 North Main street. It will be one of the finest and best equipped fruit stores in Vermont and will carry a large stock of fruits, candy, etc. I thank you for your past patronage and hope for a continuance of the same. The United Fruit Store, G. Maniatty, Prop.

Church street, from the base of Washington street, as well as Prospect street from the federal building to the bridge came in for its share of attention from the street department yesterday after both continuing streets had been transformed into a miniature slushway which dumped its outpouring into the cellar of Hooker & Co.'s furniture store. The mayor as well as the chairman of the street committee worked in co-operation with the street superintendent and his men in thawing and digging out congested sections of the surface sewer and manholes. It is reported that the conditions discovered after the flood were not wholly conducive to carrying away any large volume of water. The work of salvaging soaked merchandise from the basement of the Blanchard block was not completed until today.

A thaw which ruined sleighing on many of the rural highways and postponed indefinitely the day when lumbering operations on a large scale may be started in the woods, was not without its redeeming feature from the farmer's point of view. Melting snow and short-lived showers at intervals, were of untold value in replenishing springs and streams. Outside the city the water situation has been considered some for several weeks and the first signs of relief came with the anticipated January thaw. Some farmers who have been hauling water for their cattle were able to use their own supplies for the first time today. There is equal cause for rejoicing among some of the quarry owners on Barre hill. The water in quarry holes was raised to its normal level in a short time after the thaw and in the danger of a shortage of water for quarrying purposes seems to have passed.
